HELPING YOU GET THE MOST OUT OF YOUR EDUCATION

At the University of Oklahoma, our goal is to help you get the most out of every aspect of your education – from providing you with the assets you’ll need to complete your coursework to helping you look ahead and plan for your next career. Take a look at a few of the resources available to our students as part of your online degree program.

1 OU WRITING CENTER

The OU Writing Center provides support to all writers in the OU community by consulting with you throughout the writing process. Offering online consultations via their online submission form, as well as real-time consultations via Zoom, Skype, and other platforms, you’ll receive the constructive feedback you need to ensure that your writing skills improve throughout the process – from creating an outline to turning in a final draft.

3 OU LIBRARY SERVICES

The OU Libraries website is loaded with links to a wide variety of resources, from books and articles to specific resources for online students. There you can find and contact the librarian whose subject expertise most closely matches your research topics, in addition to writing resources, video tutorials, research guides, databases, and e-reference materials.

2 FREE AND DISCOUNTED SOFTWARE

At the University of Oklahoma, we are committed to providing the best educational experience possible without breaking the bank. As an OU student, you’ll gain access to a variety of deeply discounted – and often free – products, including Microsoft Office, Adobe Creative Cloud, EndNote, SPSS, and more.

4 DEVELOP A COMMUNITY OF PEERS

While you may be taking courses online, you won’t be taking them alone. You’ll be interacting with other students just like you, who are working on their own time to reach their personal and academic goals. Many of our students develop not only valued industry contacts among their peers, they also develop friendships that last long after your last assignments have been completed. Meeting for the first time at graduation is one of the highlights for many of our students.
